Greenwald Family Internship at the Legal Aid Society

The Greenwald Family Internship was established at the Louisville Bar Foundation in 2019 to honor Murry J. Greenwald, Peggy Hirsch Greenwald, and Brooke Greenwald Cohen. The fund was established to recognize the many gifts they gave to this community during their lifetimes and to endow a fund from which a stipend may be paid for a Brandeis School of Law student to work at the Legal Aid Society.

To be selected for this internship, a student must demonstrate his or her commitment to excellence in academic achievement as well as a commitment to helping the most vulnerable members of our community. In selecting the student, Legal Aid and the law school will give preference to the following factors: the student demonstrates financial need; the student is in good academic standing; and, the student shows a commitment to helping the community and those who need access to justice.

Legal Aid will host the Greenwald Family Intern full-time for a period of eight weeks during the Summer of 2020.

The internship offers a financial stipend of $2,800.

To apply for the Greenwald Family Internship, please submit a cover letter, resume, unofficial or official law school transcript, and three references to Meagen Peden Agnew at magnew@laslou.org with the subject line “Greenwald Family Internship application.”
